

1,300 BIG FOUR TRAINMEN GO OUT

SEE EXPANSION OF N. D. LIGNITE INDUSTRY

ORGANIZATION FORMED HERE BY OPERATORS

Look to Permanent Development of Lignite Industry Through Cooperation

DISCUSS SITUATION

Officers Elected and Second Meeting Will Be Held on August 23 Here.

Development of the lignite coal industry not merely to serve the emergency created by the present national coal shortage but to permanently enlarge the industry in North Dakota to one of the greatest in the Northwest was advocated at the conference of lignite coal operators held today at the call of the state railroad commission, as fuel administrator for the state.

Organization of operators to embark upon a campaign of education as to the uses and availability of lignite coal was urged by Stanley Washburn, of Lakewood, N. D., who is corresponding director in the Washburn Lignite Coal company of Williston. Creation of a basic market to permit continued operation of the lignite mines as a starting point for the development of the industry was urged by Hans Evesmith of Fargo, who declared that the law now on the statute books requiring use of lignite coal in state institutions provided it can be used as economically as other coal, was intended to apply to all public buildings and municipally owned utilities.

Organization Formed.

An organization of lignite operators was formed, with Stanley Washburn of the Washburn Lignite Coal Company president and W. T. Kraft of the Dakota Coal Mining Company secretary. A committee on organization was named as follows: F. E. Dietz, W. P. Macomber, E. A. Hughes, Elmer Traux and J. F. Sullivan.

The president was authorized to send a telegram to Secretary Hoover, urging that a representative of the North Dakota lignite coal operators association be named on the national advisory committee on fuel administration. Mr. Washburn said a meeting would be held August 23 to receive the report of the committee on organization.

"The great assets of North Dakota are lignite coal and her crops," said Mr. Washburn. "Your liabilities have been advertised throughout the east, but I have not found anyone east of Chicago who realizes that North Dakota is underlain with 600 billions of lignite coal."

Can Expand Industry.

Declaring his belief that the lignite industry in North Dakota could be expanded within a few years to a production of from three to five million tons as compared to an approximate capacity of 700,000 to 900,000 tons at present, Mr. Washburn urged operators to join in a common effort. A market can be created, he asserted, which would consume capacity production of every mine now operating in North Dakota. Minnesota, he held, was the best field for expansion of lignite sales.

Governor Noyes, who attended the conference, said that he had found in the eastern part of the state a great deal of misinformation concerning lignite and its uses. North Dakota has not only the problem this year of helping to relieve a fuel shortage but also to educate the public to the proper use of lignite coal.

"We must have a market in North Dakota first," said the Governor. "If every person in North Dakota will use lignite coal, you all could be working day and night, but beyond the increase in consumption in North Dakota there is the opportunity to extend into Minnesota and South Dakota."

Mr. Washburn, asserting that all railroads in the Northwest should use lignite coal, said that Samuel Vaulain, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, had written a letter in which he guaranteed to build locomotives that would use lignite economically and well. Other operators told of experiences of bakeries, creameries and threshing outfits in using lignite coal, stating all had been successful.

Good for Threshing

J. W. Deems, Nels Nichols and others asserted that there was no need of importing coal for threshing outfits, as many threshers had used lignite for years successfully.

The production figures of lignite coal were brought into question. The report of the state mine inspector showed a production of 895,000 tons in North Dakota. Opinions of operators varied considerably.

Price to be charged this year was subject of discussion. Chairman Millhollan stating he understood that one of the duties of the railroad commission as fuel administrator was to watch prices of coal under the direction of the national fuel administration.

Talk on Price

Hans Evesmith, Elmer Traux and other operators asserted that lignite operators did not want to and would not protect. He called attention to the fact that the lignite industry is a pioneer industry, and said operators (Continued on Page 3)

MEARNS WOULD LIKE TO GET OUT OF JAIL

Washington, Aug. 9.—After more than three years in jail for contempt of court, William A. Mearns, formerly a member of the banking firm of Lewis Johnson and Company, has petitioned the district supreme court for release. He refused to obey a court order to turn over $3,878 to receivers for the International Sales Corporation of which he was president and was sentenced by Justice Bailey to remain in jail until he did so. In his petition seeking release, Mearns stated that he did not have the money and could not obey the court's order.

POINCARE AND LLOYD GEORGE CANNOT AGREE

Question of What Is to Be Done with Germany Causing Strained Relations

BELGIUM INTERMEDIARY

(By the Associated Press)

London, Aug. 9.—As a result of the three-hour conversation between Premier Poincare and Mr. Lloyd George, the British prime minister today said it was decided to refer back to the committee of experts Premier Poincare's plan for control of German finances with the request that the points upon which the British and French are not in agreement be re-examined.

London, Aug. 9.—Premier Poincare of France, and Prime Minister Lloyd George are apparently further apart on what is to be done with Germany than before they met and the conference of allied statesmen in danger of breaking up with Franco-British relations worse than they were and with no decision of moment on the reparations question. They may agree to a short moratorium for Germany.

Mr. Poincare has indicated to Mr. Lloyd George things cannot go on as they are and France may be compelled to take immediate action. Premier Thunberg of Belgium is striving to bring the British and French positions nearer together.

The committee of finance ministers and experts met again to pass upon the question of the form of their report to the full conference later in the day.

The division of opinion among the delegates regarding Premier Poincare's plan for the control of Germany's finances in return for a moratorium for Germany is considered irreconcilable. The competitors base their objections upon the conviction that the plan would be unproductive or would cost more than it could produce.

BANDITS RAID BANK; LOOT OF $19,000

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 9.—Three armed bandits raided the Penn Avenue State bank, here today, while the cashier was at lunch, forced two girl employees to lie on the floor, looted cash drawers, a vault and the safe of $19,000 in cash and securities and escaped in an automobile.

The bandits took every bit of cash and all the securities at the bank, it was reported to the police. About half the loot was in bonds and securities.

The bank is a non-neighborly bank and the machine used by the bandits carried a Texas license number and had been noticed near the bank an hour before the holdup.

TWO TRAINS TO BE CUT SHORT

Reports were current in railroad circles here that the Northern Pacific would not run Nos. 7 and 8 (local afternoon trains here), west of Mandan after next Monday. Railroad officials here were without definite information, but had heard the rumor.

TERRIFIC HAIL IN STUTSMAN

Southwest Stutsman county was visited with a terrific hail and windstorm late Tuesday evening, the hail piling up in the streets of Windsor and in the fields around Sydney, Milltown and Montpelier. The storm covered a territory twelve miles wide and twenty miles long and farmers are claiming from thirty to one hundred per cent damage for the standing crops in certain limited areas. One school house was blown over.

PROGRESSIVES, 'WETS,' LOSE IN OHIO ELECTION

Harding Administration Man, Carmi Thompson, of Cleveland, Named for Governor

RENOMINATE POMERENE

He Was Opposed by Organized Labor and Also by Anti-Saloon League

(By the Associated Press)

Columbus, O., Aug. 9.—Candidates favoring wine and beer and progressivism within the Republican party went down to defeat in yesterday's state-wide primary election in Ohio, according to returns early today from more than 4,500 of the 7,336 precincts in the state.

The nine-cornered race for the Republican nomination for governor, in which these issues were paramount, apparently was won by a large margin by Carmi A. Thompson of Cleveland, who was strongly supported by President Harding's administration and by the Anti-Saloon League.

Thompson began life as a coal miner, became wealthy in oil, was elected secretary of state, later became treasurer of the United States and now is engaged in the iron ore business.

The outcome was considered by many as a vote of confidence in President Harding.

Vic Donahay, of New Philadelphia, who was the Democratic nominee for governor two years ago, again will lead his party state ticket in November, the returns indicated.

Senator Allee Pomerene of Canton, Democrat, who was opposed by both organized labor and by the Anti-Saloon League was renominated for the United States senate, over former Congressman John J. Lentz of Columbus, who was strongly endorsed by the big railroad brotherhoods.

Fess a Winner.

Congressman Simeon D. Fess of Yellow Springs, former college president and until recently chairman of the Republican national congressional committee, apparently had received the Republican nomination for senator from a field of four contestants. Like Pomerene, Fess was attacked by organized labor. He had the strong support of the Anti-Saloon League.

All of Ohio's twenty-two congressmen with the exception of two, who were candidates for other offices apparently were renominated; the Ohio delegation is solidly Republican.

Thirteen of the present Republican congressmen had no opposition, and those opposed were leading their opponents by apparently safe pluralities.

ALABAMA'S PRIMARY.

(By the Associated Press)

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 8.—Judge W. B. Brandon of Tuscaloosa, has apparently won the Democratic nomination for governor of Alabama over Colonel Bibb Graves of Montgomery, by an overwhelming majority.

Mrs. W. B. Edmundson, the first woman in this state to seek the party's nomination for a seat in congress has apparently been defeated by a large majority in the Eighth district by E. B. Almon, incumbent.

In the other four district contests, returns indicate the incumbents have been renominated with the exception of Representative Rainey of the Seventh district who was not a candidate.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

(By the Associated Press)

Port of Cádiz, Tex., Aug. 9.—Nomination of candidates for the United States senate and all state offices from governor down, making a full Republican ticket and adoption of resolutions and a state platform were on the program for today's session of the Texas Republican convention.

Indorsement of the Harding administration, disapproval of the Ku Klux Klan and advocacy of a high protective tariff are expected to be the chief planks in the platform to be adopted.

McRAE LEADS TONEY.

(By the Associated Press)

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 9.—Governor T. C. McRae, candidate for renomination as the Democratic nominee in the November election—elected in Arkansas as equivalent to election—held a lead of more than two to one over Judge E. F. Toney, his opponent when tabulating returns summed today of the delayed primary.

Representative W. A. Oldfield, Democratic whip in congress, the only member of the Arkansas congressional delegation up for renomination having opposition had a lead of approximately two and one-half to one over W. A. Hodges of Bald Knob.

Neither of the gubernatorial candidates took sides on the Ku Klux Klan and anti-Klan agitation which in some sections of the state, figured largely in several contests. Governor McRae was understood to have been endorsed by Klan supporters.

In Little Rock and Pulaski county where the Klan fight was made an issue, the ticket sanctioned by the Klansmen held a lead on the face of partial returns.

THINKS SUIT OF HELLSTROM IS TOO LATE

Deputy Secretary of State, Maurice W. Duffy, in looking into the election laws governing contests believes that the attempt of Frank O. Hellstrom to bring a suit to prevent the bringing of such a contest.

The law requires that a contest be filed within ten days of the completion of the canvass. The language of the law has been approved by the supreme court in a case brought by one Oleson against Hoge.

The North Dakota Canvassing board completed its work and the certificates of nomination were signed July 27th. This would make Sunday, August 6, the last possible day for serving an action against any of the candidates.

It is believed that the papers did not reach the Grand Forks County Attorney for serving until Monday, August 7th, and that the serving took place on that day.

BLOC FIGHTS FOR TARIFF

Washington, Aug. 9.—Proposed tariffs on hides, boots, shoes and leather which were rejected by the house, were on the senate calendar today with a decision before a recess made necessary under the unanimous consent agreement entered into last Saturday. A heated controversy was in prospect with leaders of the Republican agricultural tariff bloc urging the imposition of hides and senators from eastern and southern states opposing all of the proposals.

TWO BURNED TO DEATH

(By the Associated Press)

Little Falls, Minn., Aug. 8.—Mrs. C. O. Bart, 66 years old, and her granddaughter, Mary Anderson, 11, were burned to death at their home on the North Shore of Fish Lake, near Lincoln, Morrison county, early today. They were alone in the house.

The pair was discovered by William Wolf, a neighbor early today. Noticing a blaze on the roof, he organized a bucket brigade and fought the fire thinking no one was in the house, as he previously had tried to house the occupants but received no response. Later the charred bodies of the two were taken from the ruins. The fire is believed to have started in the attic.

UNION LEADERS REPORTED TO BE READY TO MAKE PEACE IN BITUMINOUS COAL STRIKE

COOPERATION OF PEOPLE IN STATE ASKED

Board of Railroad Commissioners Issues Statement on Coal Emergency

Cooperation by the people of the state during the coal emergency is asked by the board of railroad commissioners in a statement issued by Frank Millhollan, president of the commission. The statement follows:

"The Governor has designated the Board of Railroad Commissioners as Fuel Directors and Distributors for the State of North Dakota. The Commission is now engaged in making a survey to determine the amount of coal available for distribution and the amount of lignite that will be mined under present existing conditions. A survey is also being made to determine the amount of coal that will be required by public utilities, governmental institutions, wholesalers, retailers, industries and households. The operators have been called in conference at Bismarck for Wednesday, August 9, and in view of the fact that the Commission has also called a conference on lignite rates on the same day, it is expected that there will be a large attendance.

"The Commission will impress on the operators the fact that they should not take advantage of the present emergency to increase the price of coal. The increased profits should come from greater volume of business and not from higher prices. The Commission requests that wherever possible lignite coal be burned so as to permit use of eastern coal for threshing needs. An effort is being made by the Commission to obtain sufficient eastern coal to provide for threshing operations.

"Appreciating the fact that many people are not accustomed to burning lignite coal, the Commission has requested Mr. E. J. Babcock of Grand Forks, to write a bulletin describing the best methods of burning lignite both in ordinary stoves and in furnaces. We have also inquired as to the best methods of storing lignite.

"The Commission earnestly solicits the cooperation of the people of North Dakota in the present emergency. We would like to be advised if dealers are charging extortionate prices and will also be pleased to receive suggestions from the public."

Geo. E. Duis, president of the North Dakota Wheat Growers association and former mayor of Grand Forks, extending the glad hand of fellowship to Geo. C. Jewett, (right), general manager of the Northwest Wheat Growers Association, in his recent visit to Grand Forks. Mr. Jewett, who was formerly director of the Federal Land bank in Spokane, Washington, up until 1920, when he was drafted by the Wheat Growers of the Pacific states as general manager of that organization, stated that he felt very much at home in this state, as he is an old time resident here, having operated a string of banks in Bowden, Columbus and Kenesaw from 1900 until 1910.

ACUTE DEMAND FOR HARVEST LABOR IN N. D.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 9.—North Dakota on the whole is harvesting an unusually large crop but available returns from the threshing machines are rather a disappointment after bumper expectations of earlier in the year, according to the weekly report of 25 county agents to John W. Haw, leader.

Hot, dry weather has brought on wheat harvest with a rush and there is acute demand for harvest labor even though thousands poured into the state last week.

Rue is spreading in late sown wheat in the west. Potatoes are badly in need of rain except on the slope.

Rye threshing is practically completed with returns showing yields of from 8 to 40 bushels.

Wheat threshing is expected to become general next week.

PEACE HELD UP

(By the Associated Press)

Chicago, Aug. 9.—Developments in the railroad strike were apparently hanging fire today pending the coming conferences of railway executives at New York and of rail union leaders at Washington next Friday.

Neither side in the strike was expected to reply to President Harding's suggestions for ending the strike until after their separate meetings. Executive officials of the shop crafts were summoned by their strike leader Bert M. Jewell, head of the railway executives department of the American Federation of Labor, to a meeting at Washington today preliminary to the Friday conference.

President Harding's request for a full attendance when the house of representatives convenes next Tuesday after a six weeks vacation, the president's desire expressed to Republican Leader Mondell that the house remain in continuous session along with the senate during the industrial crisis, a statement by Ben C. Hooper, chairman of the United States railroad labor board, characterizing the president's proposal as a "safe and sane" proposition for solution of the strike, and threats by trainmen to quit work on the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern railroads unless troops are withdrawn from the yards (Continued on Page 3)

PROTEST TROOP MOVEMENTS TO JOLIET SHOPS

Brotherhood Leaders Tell Trainmen to Stay on Job but Predict Walkouts

UNIONS REJECT PLAN

Will Not Agree to Harding's Proposal for Settlement on Seniority Basis

SEND MORE TROOPS.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—Seven companies of Illinois guardsmen entrained this morning for Joliet to go on strike duty.

Officers here did not know whether the men already on duty were there to be relieved or whether the additional troops were being sent because of the walkout of Big Four Brotherhood members last night. The brotherhood men refused to work under troop protection.

Joliet, Ill., Aug. 9.—Approximately 1,300 engineers, firemen, conductors and brakemen of the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern "Big Four" brotherhoods walked out here at midnight last night in protest to the stationing of troops around the "J" yards. There were no disorders connected with their striking.

(By the Associated Press)

Chicago, Aug. 9.—Members of the Big Four brotherhoods and the Switchmen's Union of North America can help the striking shopmen most by remaining at work, preserving the peace and not playing into the hands of the railroads in such manner as to cause government intervention in the strike, according to a statement signed by the five grand chiefs and printed in the current number of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' Journal.

The statement concludes with instructions to all members to file written reports on actual violations of the safety appliance laws and of "improper orders to do work formerly employed by men on strike."

It is signed by Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers; L. E. Shoard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors; W. C. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and T. C. Cussen, international president of the Switchmen's Union of North America.

Engineers are advised by the statement that they are not expected to take out engines which will endanger their lives because of bad condition but are told to "use some common sense in this important matter" and not "tie up power over some technical violation of the law that you know is of little or no importance."

SEES MORE SUCH CASES.

(By the Associated Press)

Cleveland, Aug. 9.—Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, when told that 1,300 brotherhood men had quit at Joliet last night told the Associated Press representative that there would be 100 more similar cases soon if working conditions at rail yards and shops are not changed. "The men have not to the limit of endurance through abusive treatment from guards and conditions have reached the breaking point," Mr. Stone said.

Asked if the action of the Joliet men met with the approval of the brotherhood chiefs, Mr. Stone said: "The action does not require any approval."

W. C. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers when told of the Joliet walk-out of brotherhood members and President Stone's statement on the situation concurred in the position taken by the engineer's chief.

NEW SUGGESTION FOR ENDING THE STRIKE

Neither side in the strike was expected to reply to President Harding's suggestions for ending the strike until after their separate meetings. Executive officials of the shop crafts were summoned by their strike leader Bert M. SAYS 'WHOO!' RANKS HIGH AS CHILD-KILLER

State Board of Health Sends Out Warning Against Whooping Cough

IS NO TRIVIAL MALADY

Grand Forks, N. D., July 9.—We are in the midst of the whooping cough season, declares the State Board of Health. This note of warning is sounded because there is a tendency on the part of many parents to regard whooping cough as a trivial malady from which all children must suffer. "So long as this vicious and entirely fallacious assumption prevails," says Dr. Robert Oleson, "the disease will continue to exact its toll in prolonged suffering and premature death among innocent children."

"The record of sickness and death clearly show," says the announcement of the State Board of Health, "that whooping cough ranks high as a child-killer. Over ninety per cent of the children who succumb to this dread disease are under five years of age. This fact strongly suggests the special need for protecting children in this age group against whooping cough infection. "Parents should know that whooping cough is caused by germs which are transferred from the sick to the well in droplets during coughing. The germs may also be transferred from the hands of the sick, which are liable to become soiled during paroxysms of coughing. The disease usually develops from one to two weeks after exposure to another case as a cold and a deep, dry, spasmodic cough, often accompanied by vomiting. When a child shows these signs or it is known that there has been definite exposure to whooping cough the family physician should be consulted immediately."

Whooping Cough Vaccine
There is a whooping cough vaccine which is given to prevent the disease and to lessen its severity after the disease begins. This is not an infallible remedy but apparently gives relief in some instances and should therefore be used.

The whooping cough patient should be kept away from other children until the characteristic "whoop" has disappeared. It is a violation of the health laws to take children to the moving picture theaters, churches, schools or on street cars. Moreover, it is an obligation of the highest order to report to your health officer all cases of whooping cough or suspected whooping cough in the homes of others as well as one's own home. Good citizenship demands a ready compliance with these rules.

"Persons who fail to report cases of whooping cough," concluded the statement of the Board, "who refuse to display the warning sign on infected homes and who make no efforts to control the movements of infected children are most certainly contributing to the deaths of innocent children."

SADDLE HORSE COMING BACK, CLAIM MADE

Well Marked Interest in Running Horses Develops in Wells County

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 9.—The saddle horse followed its comrades, the Indian and the cowboy out through the vastness of civilization pushed the frontier fringe ever nearer the Pacific. It is coming back by way of the east says J. H. Shepherd, head of the agricultural college animal husbandry department.

Unlike his grandsire who followed prairie trains, the saddle horse of today trots on the cinder paths that lace the large parks of larger cities as far west as St. Paul. Even the streets of Fargo echo, sometimes, to the patter of hoofs.

A well marked interest in running horses has developed in Wells county, according to Mr. Shepherd. He attributes this in part to the fact that some of the settlers there are of English and Scotch descent whose forbears, may at one time, have followed the hounds over the hedger or the heather. Even the youngsters are "horsy."

At any rate they are breeding fast and rearing horses down there, he says, and are going to try to get the co-operation which the government is offering in the breeding of cavalry horses for the army.

The running races of Fessenden have gotten to be as much of a classic in that part of the state as the derby at Churchill Downs is in Kentucky, according to Mr. Shepherd, who believes that it should be made a part of the state fair attractions. The jockeys, he says, are hard brown, country lads in overalls and with quilts hanging from their wrists, and they ride like possessed while their changing of mounts in the relay is as spectacular as anything in a wild west show.

MANDAN NEWS

POLICE DOES NOT APPEAR AGAINST SHOP EMPLOYEE

In the hearing of the case of F. E. Schauberg, an employee of the engineering department of the Northern Pacific, one of the men working in the local shops in the place of strikers, who was arrested by Policeman Robert Huff Monday on a charge of resisting an officer and of using obscene language on the street no one appeared against him in court yesterday. The Northern Pacific chief of special agents, A. W. Brady deposited a check as bail.

The arrest was the result of a dispute between Policeman Huff and Schauberg, which took place on Main street near Collins avenue Monday night. A local man called Schauberg a scab. He replied that he was not. Shortly after the argument had started Policeman Huff came along and arrested Schauberg on the complaint of the local man that Schauberg was using obscene language. Schauberg had Policeman Huff arrested on a charge of exceeding his authority and of attempting to make an arrest for a misdemeanor without a warrant or without personal knowledge of the law violation.

Bank President Wm. Maas Resigns

William Maas, founder of the Farmers Equity State Bank of Mandan, sent in his resignation as president of the bank Monday evening at the special meeting of the board of directors. The reason given for the resignation was the press of personal and private business affairs.

Mr. Maas came to Mandan in 1915 and held the office of vice president and manager of the Merchants National Bank when that institution was controlled by Frank S. Graham who is now in Minneapolis.

He organized the Farmers Equity State bank in 1916. Previous to his arrival in Mandan he was connected with the First National of Glen Ulin. No announcement of Mr. Maas's successor was made, but it is thought someone will be named in ten days or two weeks.

Mr. Maas stated that he expected to remain in Mandan for several months at least but would make permanent plans later.

The Lutz Photograph Studio has been asked by the Northern Pacific dining car service to take scenic views along the Northern Pacific railroad from Duluth to the Pacific coast. At various times in the past the studio has been called upon to take scenic views for the railroad company.

R. E. Lutz, manager of the studio, will leave in a short time to begin taking views between the Twin Cities and Duluth. George Lutz, who is accompanied by Allison Cary, is doing photographic work in the Black Hills. Later they will leave for the Yellowstone Park and continue along the western coast.

A corn roast will be enjoyed by the members of the Business and Professional Women's club this evening at Chautauqua Park. The roast is in honor of Misses Ida Thorberg, Alice Well, Frances Harlema, and Mrs. Zoe Sprake, four members of the club who will leave Mandan within a few weeks. All members are asked to meet at the club rooms at 6 o'clock.

A cold contracted recently developed into pneumonia from which he died.

PROTEST TROOP MOVEMENT TO JOLIET SHOPS

at Joliet, Ill., marked the situation during the last 24 hours. The threatened walkout of "Big Four" brotherhood men—engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen—on the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern began early today. Men gathered at the terminals but refused to turn a wheel unless the soldiers, called as the result of the Monday outbreak in which two men were killed and Sheriff Newkirk dangerously wounded, were immediately withdrawn.

The railroad does a heavy short-haul freight business as an outer belt line of the Chicago switching district, and handles the bulk of yard traffic touching the steel mills.

Quiet prevailed at Albany, Ala., where state troops called out by Governor Kilby were in control.

SUBMIT TO CONFERENCE
Washington, Aug. 9.—Shop craft federation leaders, meeting here today have stated that the reply to President Harding's second proposal for a voluntary termination of the walkout would be submitted to the general conference of railroad labor heads here Friday before it was sent to the White House.

Rejection of the administration plan by the workers is regarded as certain. Forecasts as to the course of the managements are not so definite.

REFUSE SETTLEMENT.
New York, Aug. 9.—Twenty-five thousand rail shop craft workers through David Williams, secretary of the eastern strike committee, today sent a telegram to B. M. Jewell, at Washington, putting themselves on record as refusing to accept President Harding's proposal for submitting the seniority question to the railroad labor board.

HOOPER LEAVES.
Chicago, Aug. 9.—Chairman Ben Hooper of the United States railroad labor board will leave this afternoon for Washington to be on hand during the rail union conference Friday.

ORDER TO CLERKS
(By the Associated Press).
Cincinnati, Aug. 9.—Clerks, freight handlers and station men who are not on strike have been ordered to stay away from their usual places of employment whenever their lives are endangered, either by armed guards or defective railroad equipment. The Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Station and Express Employees announced today in a statement today to the Associated Press.

KEENEY WILL GO TO TRIAL

Charlestown, W. Va., Aug. 9.—C. Frank Keene, president of district No. 17, United Mine Workers, will be tried here on a charge of accessory before the fact in the killing of a Logan county deputy sheriff on Blair Mountain late last summer. This was announced in court today by state counsel here to prosecute cases growing out of the march of armed miners in the southern West Virginia coal fields.

NAMED ON COMMISSION.
Washington, Aug. 9.—George Currier, former governor of New Mexico, was appointed today by President Harding to be the American commissioner of the United States-Mexico international boundary commission.

HOME MAKERS CLUBS TO START FUNCTIONING

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 9.—About fifty home-makers clubs will begin to function in the farming communities throughout the state on September 1, according to Miss Grace DeLong and Mrs. Dorothy A. Louden of the agricultural college home demonstration department. More clubs are in process of organization.

Women of the country community will get together in club meetings once a month (or oftener), and will exchange notes on anything from care of baby chicks to the making of nifty dresses or the best way of cooking a dinner. Community welfare, the presentation of entertainments and introduction into the community of libraries will be among things which the home makers will make their business.

The women behind the movement make the point that North Dakota women generally have a big job before them in making rural North Dakota a more interesting and a better place in which to live.

Food, clothing and poultry study programs will be issued by the home demonstration department which will help the movement along in every possible way. Individual clubs, it is expected will take up other problems making for more entertainment, music, more books and better home surroundings and gardens for the farm home.

SPECIAL WEEK IN ILLITERACY WORK PLANNED

North Dakota state, fraternal and social organizations will center their attention upon the campaign against illiteracy in the state for the week within which November 2, 1922, falls. The date marks practically the completion of a third of a century of statehood, the Dakota territory having been admitted as a state November 2, 1889. The week will be the beginning of the intensive campaign to eliminate as far as possible, illiteracy in the state this year being considered the most favorable for building upon the organization made during the last school year.

In making the announcement of the special week, Miss Minnie J. Nielson, state superintendent, announced that the leadership in the movement would be taken by the fraternal organizations and the Federated Women's clubs of the state. Extensive plans are being made by some of these organizations to interest themselves in the development of an understanding of the needs of the state in the way of eliminating the illiterate.

ators could not afford to increase production this year unless the price were sufficient to guarantee some return. He said two or three mines had gone into the hands of receivers in the last year and others have lost money.

Chairman Millhollan informed the conference he understood that North Dakota was allotted 100,000 tons of bituminous coal by the national fuel administration; the coal to be distributed from some central point, but added that the requirements of the national administration were that a state able to supply itself must do so.

The operators who were here included W. P. Macomber, Stanley Washburn, Mr. Oles, Washburn Lignite Coal Co.; Nels Nichols, Walter Ray, High Grade Coal Co., Medora; Judge W. C. Crawford, Leigh Mining Co., Dickinson; Elmer Trunk, Trunk Coal Co., Columbus; J. F. Sullivan, McCormick Coal Company, New Salem; W. T. Kraft, Beulah Coal Mining Co.; P. J. Cahill, Lucky Strike Coal Co.; Hans Evesmith, Zenith Coal Co.

James S. Millay, secretary of the Minot Association of Commerce, addressed the operators, promising cooperation of his organization.

MUST USE LIGNITE
Fargo, N. D., Aug. 9.—North Dakota will have to depend largely on her lignite mines to supply coal demands this winter. W. P. Macomber, president of the Washburn Lignite Coal Company said here yesterday on his way home from a conference of the company's directors and railroad officials at St. Paul.

The mine is doing all possible to be in readiness for a possible coal shortage, he said. New equipment has been put in and the payroll of 300 to 400 men will be doubled if the men can be secured he added. He declared there is no disagreement between his mine and its union employees adding that as the situation now appears "we may begin operations within a few days."

Every mine owner in the state is aware of the need for lignite and is making preparations to fill the demands, according to Mr. Macomber's expressed belief.

ASK REPRESENTATIVE
The newly organized North Dakota Lignite Coal Operators Association in its meeting this afternoon approved the following telegram: Herbert Hoover, Esq., Secretary of Commerce, Washington, D. C.

At the request of Governor Nestos of North Dakota there met today in Bismarck the coal operators of the state representing ninety per cent of the producers of lignite in North Dakota. At this meeting the North Dakota Lignite Coal Operators' Association was formed and upon it will devolve the responsibility of supplying the needs of North Dakota and such portions of South Dakota and Minnesota as can be reached with our surplus. We believe North Dakota mines will increase coal production to one million and half tons this year to meet fuel crisis in the northwest. It is the purpose of the organization to cooperate in every way with the federal administration both as to production, distribution and prevention of profiteering. Inasmuch as lignite will be a main factor in the northwest fuel situation we feel that the operators of North Dakota should be represented on the coal operators advisory committee as we have no such representation now. We would therefore respectfully request that you invite North Dakota representatives to Washington to recommend for your consideration an appointment as a member of the national advisory committee.

Stanley Washburn, President, Washburn Lignite Coal Operators Assn.

DETERMINES AMOUNT OF SULPHUR

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 9.—Jacob Moyer, agricultural college regulatory chemist, has developed a process for determining something less than one millionth part of sulphur in a given solution.

Soda fountain syrups, grape juice, gelatin and dry fruits are among the manufactured foods that sometimes have more sulphur in them than they should have. It is up to the regulatory department to dig it out and expose it, even though it may exist in infinitesimal proportions. The old method was costly and cumbersome.

Accordingly Mr. Moyer simply adds some sulphur-free zinc and a little hydrochloric acid to the sample and if it contains sulphur hydrogen sulphide will be formed. Lead acetate paper will turn black if held in the fumes.

WAVE-LENGTH APPLICATIONS

Apply at Once Because Soon
It Will Be Too Late

Stockholm, Aug. 9.—"Apply for your wave-length now, or you will be left out in the cold," was the warning advice given to Sweden by E. T. W. Alexandersson, of New York, chief engineer of the Radio Corporation of America, who is making a brief business visit to Sweden, his native land. The Radio Corporation has entered its bid for delivery of apparatus and equipment for the new high-power wireless station which Sweden is now building on its west coast.

In an interview with the Stockholm press, Mr. Alexandersson, a well-known radio expert, explained that only an extremely limited number of trans-Atlantic radio stations would be operated successfully without serious interference. He said that various countries had already reserved most of the wave-lengths suitable for trans-Atlantic communication, and only a few were left. The wave-lengths best suited for such long distance transmission, are between 10,000 and 20,000 meters. The wave-lengths between 11,500 and 17,000 meters have been reserved, while Poland has applied for the 18,000 meter length.

Mr. Alexandersson declared that in his opinion radio traffic should be monopolized by the various governments of the world. Otherwise, he said, the confusion in the air will become so great that all radio service may ultimately be rendered impossible. The awarding of wave-lengths to trans-Atlantic stations is now made by an international commission whose next session will probably be held in London this year.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWS-PAPER

(Established 1873)

FOR EDUCATION, NOT REGULATION

For many years there has been a tendency to create state regulatory and enforcement offices far removed from the jurisdiction of the officers elected by the people and constitutionally charged with the enforcement and administration of the laws of the state. By a nibbling process not only has much responsibility been taken away from elective officers so that they exercise little power in the state government, for which purpose we go through the expense and fuss of an election every two years, but many departments and positions have been removed from the ordered seat of the state government.

A court decision resulted in the grain grading and inspection department of the state being transferred from the Agricultural College to the capital of the state and put under the jurisdiction of the board of railroad commissioners,

the members of which are elected by and directly responsible to the people of the state. Petitions for an initiated law to be voted on in November have been filed which provides that the grain grading and inspection department shall again be located at the Agricultural College in Fargo and be virtually an autonomous and powerful branch of the government.

There is no more necessity for the grain inspection work being done at the Agricultural College than there is for the establishment of artificial ice plants at the north pole. The Agricultural College is an educational institution, and the people of the state pay taxes for its support as such. It properly should serve the state by lending the technical knowledge of its professors. The short experience of the grain grading department of the board of railroad commissioners

operating as a branch of the railroad commission here has demonstrated quite clearly that the work can be carried on here and that the Agricultural College is valuable only as an agency to turnish technical information needed at times. Dr. John Lee Conter, president of the Agricultural College, has very properly urged that the entire regulatory division of the college be transferred from there to Bismarck, the seat of the state government. The business of the Agricultural College is that of education and the business of the officials and departments in Bismarck is that of enforcement and administration of the law.

THE SINGING DEMON

Mosquitoes bite us only as a last resort—when they are unable to find any other kind of prey.

You may doubt this, but it comes from the man who is supposed to know more about mosquitoes than anyone else in the world. He is Dr. W. Rudolfs, scientist on the payroll of New Jersey.

Rudolfs' investigations show that a mosquito will pass up a human only for a horse, cow, pig, rabbit, any kind of animal life except chickens and ducks. Just why they prefer cheer of fowls is unknown. When science finds out, it may open the door to immunization of the man-animal against the singing, stinging demons.

You have swatted a mosquito and found it full of blood. About 9 out of 10 times, says Rudolfs, the blood is from an animal.

The mosquito is the universal pest. It is found in all parts of the world. Stefansson, the explorer, says there are more of them in northern Greenland than in the equatorial jungles.

Here's a riddle of nature. The mosquito never feeds when the atmosphere's humidity is under 40. Its appetite goes up with the barometer.

The mosquito is a biting fly. It hatches from eggs laid in stagnant water. Its life usually is only a few months. Some kinds, however, live all summer. Others hibernate through the winter, in warm stages, and emerge in spring from ice in which they have been frozen solid. With vitality like that, no wonder they are so hard to exterminate.

The song of the mosquito—saddest music that ever reached human ear—is a sort of lung and throat rasp caused by breathing. Flies are different, their hum is caused by fast whirling of their wings, like an airplane propeller.

No public problem is more pressing and emphatic than the mosquito plague when they are present. The germs they carry kill thousands of people, usually by malaria, typhoid and other fevers.

You believe in swatting the mosquito. But it seems like a hopeless job when you go on vacation and find them swimming in the woods and along the shores of fishing ponds, by millions.

The mosquito, however, is not an explorer. He might fly a few miles in a season, but generally he haunts the old homestead where he first tried out his wings.

Man never will be able to exterminate the mosquito. But we can keep him in bounds, away from cities and open places in the country. At that's needed is to prevent stagnant water. A rusty old tin can with a little stale water in it will breed more mosquitoes than any one person can swat in a lifetime. That's your cue.

CROOKS

Flying smugglers bring strong liquor into Texas from Mexico. Prohibition agents scowl but are helpless as the rum-runners look down from their airplanes and give them the horse-laugh.

The day is not far off when the flying machine will be widely used by criminals. One thrill that is in store for you will be watching gun battles between flying crooks and aerial police.

CIGARS

The five-cent cigar is coming back after long absence. Sales, naturally, are big. Most of them are not as good as before the war, but they indicate the national drift toward lower cost of living.

The smoker whose income has been reduced will agree that the situation has not changed since Mark Twain said, "What the country needs most is a good five-cent cigar." It is as important to the poor man as the stock market is to the rich gambler.

X-RAY

Charged with stealing a diamond ring, an ice man is arrested in South Orange, N. J. He breaks down, admits the theft, but refuses to tell what he did with the ring. The police take him to a hospital.

A surgeon turns on the X-ray machine and in less time than it takes you to read this, says: "He swallowed it. I see round metal object in his stomach."

"This process of making the human body transparent is one of man's greatest deeds of wizardry. The novelty has worn off quickly and we consider it commonplace, for we live in an age of super-magic."

FORTUNES

Avery Hopwood's earnings from the plays he has written are said to total over $1,000,000.

Quite a step forward from the days when writers starved in garrets!

Ancient Rome rewarded its favorite actors fabulously. The tragedian, Aescopus, bequeathed to his son the equivalent of $750,000 in modern American money, all believed to have been made as an actor. Sounds like modern movies.

SOUTH BEND'S GUMDROPS

South Bend is the biggest little town in the United States, assert manufacturers and sellers of gumdrops. More gumdrops are sold per capita than in any other place in America, and as any place where gumdrops are sold in large quantities is a hick town, says the candy men, this is the "hick village."

The demand for gumdrops is so great that there is not a candy shop, department store, grocery or 5 and 10-cent store in the city that is not featuring the colorful candy.

A canvass of stores that sell candy shows that the demand for gumdrops leads the requests for all other sweets by 100 per cent. In one store the average sale of gumdrops is a barrel a day.

Sales are not limited to any particular class or age, and it is not cheapness that brings about the demand. It makes no difference whether the price is 40 cents a pound or 80 cents in the high class confectionery. The professional man, the laborer, woman and child, all have a mania for the varicolored "drops."—Indianapolis News.

LEARNING TO LIKE IT

England is learning to eat ice cream. They've heard of this frozen dairy- over there, of course, but have never been able to wean themselves from tea long enough to know just what they have been missing. But the Englishman, with that same painful degree of slowness which has marked his part in world history since time began, is "catching on," and ice cream promises to become so popular over there as it has been in America since the introduction of artificial ice.

There are certain obstacles to be overcome before England accepts ice cream in such quantities as to make the industry financially successful. English markets are traditionally conservative, and the sale of a new line of goods is apt to be more difficult than in the United States. Also, the habit of taking afternoon tea has become so firmly established over there that it is certain to interfere with the introduction of new foods and drinks that are usually served between the three chief meals of the day. The summer climate, too, has not the sweetening heat which demands feed drinks and cooling foods, as in many parts of America, and under the laws of that country confectioneries and food shops are forced to close at 9:30 p. m. Yet with all these handicaps, ice cream is pushing its way into England. And England isn't going to elude her if she doesn't demonstrate that she knows a good thing when she sees it by reaching out her hand in welcome.—Springfield News.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

Something dreadful happened. The Chocolate Rooster had fallen into the lake on the Tinkly-Winkly Star and was half melted before the Twins rescued him.

Suddenly Nancy saw a fire on shore.

"We'll take you there and dry you, poor dear," she said kindly, "and then we can go on. We simply must find Flap-Doodle, the wicked fairy who has caused all this trouble with the wand he stole from the Fairy Queen."

The fire was high and hot, but nobody was around tending to it. Not a Tinkly-Winkly was in sight.

"Maybe it's a magic fire," said Nick. "Maybe Flap-Doodle is sorry he changed you into chocolate and he's caused this fire to dry you out."

The Twins were so busy looking around to see if Flap-Doodle was near that they had not noticed what had happened.

Suddenly their eyes met a dreadful sight. The Chocolate Rooster had disappeared completely and in its place was nothing but a little pool of melted chocolate.

The fire, instead of drying him, had melted him.

Just then the fire disappeared. "Oh!" cried Nancy. "It's all magic! That awful Flap-Doodle is using the stolen wand. He's melted his best friend."

"He wasn't my best friend," said a voice behind them. He decided in everything he did.

Quick as a flash they turned, just in time to catch a glimpse of Flap-Doodle, himself, holding tight to the coveted wand.

But even as they looked, he flapped his ears and faded away from view.

A THOUGHT

Ask and it shall be given you; seek and ye shall find; knock and it shall be opened unto you.—Matthew 7:7.

Ourselves are easily provided for; it is nothing but the circumstantialities of life that cost so much.—Alexander Pope.

TODAY'S WORD

Today's word is—ALTRUISM.

It's pronounced al-tru-iz-m, with accent on the first syllable.

It means—regard for or devotion to the interests of others.

It was first used by the philosopher Comte, who perhaps borrowed it from the Italian, "altru," meaning "of" or "to others," or from the Latin, "after," meaning another.

It's like this—"Many Americans feel that while it is all very well for them to discuss among themselves the desirability of canceling Europe's indebtedness, the suggestion comes with a very bad grace from the Europeans who seek to profit by this hoped for altruism."

RED TAPE FORCES WIFE TO TRAVEL
EXTRA 6000 MILES TO ENTER UNITED STATES

MRS. REMI CARTON AND HER SON, FRANK.

Again red tape has clashed with human kindness in the administration of the "quota" immigration laws.

And red tape has triumphed—with a triple result:

ONE: The young wife of a Belgian resident of Chicago, who has fled his native country to become an American citizen, is being forced to make an extra 6,000-mile round trip to Europe in order to gain admittance to the United States for her eight-year-old son.

TWO: The husband, already crushed by the ruin of war in Belgium and struggling for a new start in America, is forced to bear the expense of the extra 6,000-mile trip and to postpone the reunion with wife and child on which his heart was set.

THREE: Official Washington is aroused. Whatever their attitude on the merits of the "quota" immigration laws may be, legislators are preparing to demand that their enforcement be tempered by reason and kindness and that more emphasis be laid on the spirit of the regulations than on their letter.

BY AXELANDER HERMAN.

New York, Aug. 9.—To cover the hundred yards from the detention room here to the New York ferry, a young Belgian woman and her eight-year-old son have been forced to take an extra 6,000-mile trip to Europe and back.

All because they arrived three and a half hours ahead of schedule!

And the immigration authorities could find no way of cutting the red tape which barred them!

So another chapter of sorrow was added to the tragedy of a young family which had been rent apart in the aftermath of the war.

With his business wiped out by war, Remi Carton left Belgium, came to this country and settled in Chicago. He declared his intention of becoming a citizen of the United States.

His wife came with him. But they had to leave their boy behind with relatives.

They worked hard and prospered. When they had $2,000 in the family bank account, they decided to get their boy.

Goes for Son.

Mrs. Carton went for him. Being a resident of this country, she knew she could be readmitted here without trouble. But she didn't know about the restrictions governing the admittance of her son. She started to return in June.

Mrs. Carton was advised to postpone her return until the next sailing. This ship was not due in New York until July 1.

But the boat was fast and the weather good so the mother and boy reached port several hours before they expected. The authorities decided that the youngster could not be admitted for the quota had been filled.

But couldn't they forget that he arrived three and one-half hours too soon and consider him as a July arrival? The mother argued with officials.

Came Back to Washington.

They took up with the immigration inspectors. The case was carried to a board of review in Washington. A month went by.

The boy had to go back. He could return on the same boat and apply for admittance under the new quota, but he had to go back.

"It's hard to be so near and yet so far," sighed Mrs. Carton when she heard the final decision. "I can't understand a law that makes us travel thousands of miles to come back to the same place a little later."

"But I suppose that it can't be helped. I'm going with my son. I won't let him travel alone. The sooner we go, the quicker we return."

Back to Europe.

So she packed up, took the fastest boat out and expects soon to come back. Today she is at sea.

But if the return trip is delayed and Belgium's quota of 313 a month is filled before they reach port again they may have to make the trip across a third time!

"On the 28th of last month," says Harry R. Landis, assistant commissioner of immigration here, "there were only 24 Belgians admitted before the allotment was filled."

"So Mrs. Carton and her son would better hurry back."

BY ROY GIBBONS.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—Three teddy bears and a stuffed rocking horse stand in an empty room here as if in a mute protest against seemingly needless immigration laws powerful enough to separate families and break the hearts of parents.

Remi Carton put them there to welcome the arrival of his eight-year-old son, Frank, from Belgium. He had garlanded his janitor's basement quarters with flowers making the tiny place a veritable underground fairy-land.

But all this expenditure of love and thoughtfulness was in vain.

For Carton's son and wife were sent back to Europe by the Ellis Island officials; they must travel to a European port, turn around and come back to America again before they can be admitted.

Carton is heartbroken.

Told for Son's Future.

Ever since he came to this country with his wife, he had saved and scrimped to send her back for little Frank to bring the boy to this country.

"Where he could grow up with enough to eat and become educated," Working as a janitor here the father and husband spared no effort to earn money enough to give his son the opportunities which he had never had.

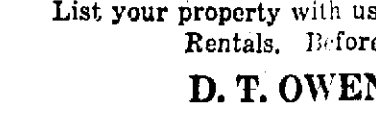

Where one apartment building would have been a heavy drain on his time and energy, Carton, by working night and day for the last year has been earning for seven so that his added income might "make it easy for my boy."

PITTSBURGH PIRATES IN THIRD PLACE

Takes Double Victory from Phillies in Unsurpassed Slugging Fest

MAKES IT TEN IN A ROW

Giants Lose to Cincinnati and Lead League by Only Two Points

(By the Associated Press.)
Chicago, Aug. 9.—The Pittsburgh Pirates were in third place today and making a bold bid for the higher berth held by the Giants and Cardinals as a result of a slugging streak surpassing even the most violent batting outburst this season and rivaling the best on the record book.

By taking a double victory from the Phillies, 19-4 and 7-3, making it ten in a row, the lapping corsairs brought their hit and run total for the last three games to 68 and 43 respectively, giving the team a batting average of .466 for the series. They made 22 hits in the first game and 27 and 19 in yesterday's contests. A remarkable feature was the fact that every member of the team connected for at least one hit in each of the games. Red Russell and Tierney set the pace with ten apiece.

The Cardinals were idle but the Giants dropped to a lead of but two points as a result of losing to Cincinnati 7-3, in ten innings.

The Browns and Yankees succumbed to a stellar pitching and remained within a game of each other in the American league race. Dasso of Detroit had the better of Earl Mays, checking the New Yorkers winning streak of six games, while Zachary held St. Louis to seven scattered hits and Washington won 3-1.

The Boston Red Sox pounded three Cleveland hurlers for 21 hits and a 15-6 triumph, while the White Sox continued their slugging against Philadelphians and were victorious 6-4.

Joe Addicks and Dutch Reuther each allowed nine hits but the Chicago Cubs lunched theirs to better advantage and defeated Brooklyn 4 to 1.

32 HOME RUNS IN 14 DAYS AT ST. LOUIS

(By the Associated Press.)
St. Louis, Aug. 9.—When the St. Louis and Washington Americans failed to register a home run in yesterday's game they brought to an end a streak of home run hitting, the like of which has never been duplicated here.

Four fourteen straight days, or since the Browns opened their present home stand, there have been 32 circuit clouts made, nine of which were collected by Kenneth Williams, leading major league batter this season.

REDS ONLY TEAM TO BOAST OF TWO-MAN CATCHING STAFF

IVIE WINGO—(INSERT) EUGENE HARGRAVE.

Wingo Used when Nine Face Right-handed Pitcher; Hargrave for Southpaws

BY BILLY EVANS.

Individual supremacy has prevailed for years in the department of catching, although the position is more than a man's job.

However, probably once upon a time somebody told somebody else that a catching staff should be composed of one leader with two recruits to fill in.

Such conditions exist with many major league clubs today. And for years and years back, too.

Figure for yourself and see what chance a young catcher has with the Chicago White Sox with Ray Schalk around; with the Athletics with Cyrus Perkins on the job; with the Cleveland Indians with Steve O'Neill; and with the St. Louis Browns, with Iron-Hank Severid wearing the mask.

This one-man rule, however, does not prevail with the Cincinnati Reds, where Patrick Moran boasts of what is rated the best two-man catching staff in the major league loop.

Here's the cast:

The cast reads: Ivie Wingo and Eugene Hargrave, alias "Bubbles".

The funny part about this combination is that Moran and the pitcher do not pick the catcher for the game.

Then how is it worked?

The pitcher on the other club. Until Moran received the name of the opposing pitcher he does not select his catcher. And for this reason:

Hargrave, a right-handed batter sits behind the mask when the Reds go against a southpaw.

There is Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Cardinals who shifts infielders and outfielders according to the style of pitching against the Cardinals and other managers also arrange changes, but this is the only two-man catching staff in either big league.

Wingo is as spry today as he was when he entered the National League in the summer of 1911. He remained with the St. Louis Cardinals until 1915 when he was traded to the Reds for Miguel Gonzales. He was born at Norcross, Ga., July 8, 1890.

Hargrave had to tour around the minor league circuit for a long period before convincing the majors that he was ripe. He was given a trial by the Cubs as a kid in 1913, but Jimmy Archer was on that job at that time, hence "Bubbles" did not have much of a chance to develop.

Betting in the 300 class for three seasons, starting in 1918 with St. Paul, Hargrave was snatched by the Reds for delivery in 1921.

BARFOOT INHERITED HIS MOUNDSMANSHIP

CLYDE BARFOOT

Enter Sergeant Clyde Barfoot, six feet tall, 175 pounds, into the ranks of winning major league pitchers. Being one of the species which has for its particular characteristic the theory that the St. Louis Cardinals are going to beat out the New York Giants for the National League pennant, the Virginia lad is giving the true proof of the verity of this doctrine his own strong right arm.

The history of that right wing—how it first learned the art of imploring the horsehide through the atmosphere, how it strengthened month by month and year by year until now it can speed 'em up to the catcher like a streak, and how it mastered the little tricks which make up the winning arm—is a long one.

The sonnets of the capital of the Old Dominion were the scene of its first tour de force. Clyde, coming from a family already famous for their prowess on the diamond, formed a natural inclination for the game and was a member of the Randolph and Madison school once, achieved brilliant success.

Army Man First

He never went to high school, but at the age of 17 and already a tin-tin-bell around him he entered the army and immediately found his place in prominence as a pitcher. In 1916, after he had reached the rank of sergeant, his term was out and he immediately signed with Dallas of the Texas League, who sold him later to Galveston and later he went to Houston, with which club he played until the start of this season. He was this year picked up by the Cardinals and made a place for himself from the start.

The "screw ball," a unique delivery, originated by Sergeant Barfoot, is his favorite resort to retire a batter, and he says it is more effective when used against a left-handed hitter. Leaving the hand behind the arm of the pitcher is horizontal, it takes a sudden duck away from the batsman which generally produces the desired result.

Famous "Screw Ball"

And not only did Barfoot have success with this delivery in the Texas League but he is causing National League batters to tap weakly or miss altogether with the use of this deceptive twist.

Friends of the sergeant's in Richmond daily in the box seats of the Cardinals to see what Clyde did, his mother, Mr. Annie Barfoot, and younger sister, who at present live in Cleveland, are partially supported by the younger and are frequently visited by him, along with Mrs. Clyde Barfoot, who lives in Texas.

He only cost St. Louis $1000. Before this season is over he may be worth $10,000 to them. Watch him in the 1922 world series!

You Can be a Winner In This Campaign

YES—We mean it. YOU can be the proud possessor of that wonderful $2620 Hudson Sedan or one of the other four automobiles, illustrated here, if you want to. These exceptional motor cars, together with many other desirable awards, are going to be given away absolutely FREE in just a few short weeks, to some happy candidates who enter The Bismarck Tribune's $10,000 Automobile and Prize Campaign.

There is positively no reason why YOU should not have an automobile all your very own. Let the wishes and hopes of 1921 be bygones. Say to yourself today, "I resolve that 1922 is going to make my auto dreams come true. I will have a car, all my own."

With the first break of fall naturally comes the ardent desire to own an automobile. Nothing is so invigorating and helpful to the health and happiness of an individual as a cool, refreshing auto ride after the day's work is done. A motor car is one of the true pleasures of life—every family really needs one. There are many of us who cannot afford to buy one. But, fortunately, you do not have to be without a car any longer.

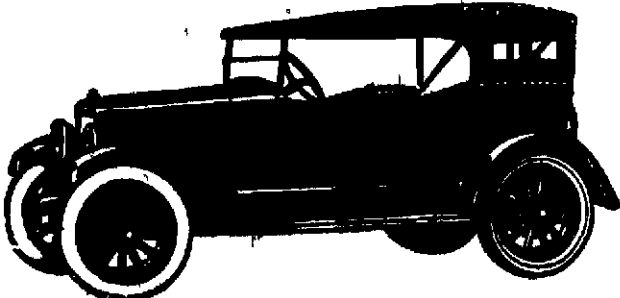

All that this publication asks of you, is that you will "trade" some of your spare time for one of the prizes by gathering votes—votes which are given free with all Tribune subscriptions. Tell your wife, your husband, your friends and neighbors that you are out to win that $2620 Hudson Sedan on September 16. Ask them to help you by taking The Tribune for one or more years—winning will be easy, just decide that you will at least try before you say it can't be done.

You have often wished for such prizes as these, but wishing will bring little results. The willing workers most always win, while the waiting wishers wait another day. An early start will count a long ways. Time is indeed valuable—send in your name or that of a friend today.

DON'T DELAY! ENTER NOW!

A Fortune in Prizes 25 Awards in All

BESIDES the five big automobiles—one of which you can make sure of—The Bismarck Tribune has twenty other grand prize awards to distribute. Our list totals in all nearly $10,000 in actual cash. And, on top of all this, we guarantee that everyone who collects votes will win a prize or be given ten per cent commission on all subscription payments they may turn in, provided one or more new subscriptions are turned in each week from the time the candidate starts to work.

Who? Anyone living either in the city of Bismarck or outside is eligible to compete for the magnificent prizes. It makes no difference who you are, where you live or what you do—you can win your share of a big twenty-five reward, $10,000 prize list on Saturday, September 16, 1922, the closing date of the campaign.

When? Participation in the subscription drive will start immediately and the campaign is not going to drag over a protracted period of time—the race ends September 16—this, fact expresses the liberality of the plan and makes it easier for every candidate engaged in the competition for prizes. It means that within only 49 working days, a host of happy folks will be the proud participants in the distribution of valuable and cherished awards for a little time and energy concentrated on a laudable ambition to be a victor in this enterprise.

How? The big thing which will make you a winner is votes. The more votes you can earn—the easier you win. Get out your scissors and clip the coupons below. Every coupon published is going to count free votes. Be sure to have your friends help you by clipping 50-free vote coupons each day. Votes are also given in large numbers on Bismarck Tribune's new and renewal subscriptions. This arrangement is made so as to allow candidates to secure subscriptions from readers whose papers expire soon. Also to allow candidates in thinly settled communities to secure votes where it would be difficult to collect many coupons.

Where? Campaign territory has been divided into two districts in order to make an equal distribution of prizes—eleven big awards, headed by motor cars, to go in each of the two districts. All of the city of Bismarck comprises district number one. All territory outside the city limits comprises district number two. It is well to explain, though, that while a candidate will enter and compete from the district in which he or she lives, they will be permitted to take subscriptions either in or out of their own district and all will have an opportunity to compete for the Grand Capital Prize, the $2620 Hudson Sedan.
